

Psalm 47:1-9

Introduction: This Psalm seems to follow Jesus' victory at the battle of Armageddon (Revelation 19). Often this psalm is reserved for recognition of Ascension Day. In the synagogue it is recited on New Year's Day (Rosh Hashanah, in September or October).

Superscription: To the music director. A psalm of the sons of Korah.

- a) His domain is universal—God is the King of all the earth;
    - i) Praises are to be sung to the One Who subdues them under Israel.
(1) Cf. this with Matthew 6:10, 13 and Psalm 46:10)
    - ii) Make music with understanding.
      - (1) Understand that the universe is about God, and not you.
      - (2) This refers to music being played appropriately and with requisite skill. (Allen)
        - (a) “The music that will be performed and sung at the coronation of the King of glory will be both appropriate in its selection and skillful in its performance. Anything less would ruin the occasion.” (Allen)
    - iii) In the movie, Titanic, Leonard DiCaprio’s character stands on the bow of the soon-to-be-sunk ocean liner and shouts, “I’m the king of the world.” What an empty expression. Worse yet is that the director, James Cameron, shouted the same words when he received his Oscar.
  - b) His dominion is universal—<sup>8</sup> God reigns over the nations! God sits on His holy throne!
- 4) What will the nations do?—47:9
- a) <sup>9</sup> The nobles of the peoples have gathered together as the people of the God of Abraham;

    - iii) A reversal of the tower of Babel.
  - b) Why? because the shields of the earth belong to God.
    - i) He has defeated them all. They are hung on His trophy wall as a symbol of lasting victory. The weapons of warfare are no longer needed. (Allen)
- 5) Restatement of 47:5—He is greatly exalted.
- 6) Compare this with the 2 songs in Isaiah 12:1-3 & 4-6

Take-home truth: until this psalm is fulfilled, believers must do what the psalmist did, call the world to submit to the sovereign Lord who has gained the victory over the greatest enemies. (Ross)

Prayer: Father, teach me to worship with all my heart and all my soul all the time. Amen.
